

Leadership for Systems Change

A comprehensive course to equip Coordinators and Managers in the East region to lead through uncertainty and complexity.

8th September - 8th December 2020

Course overview

The Inner East and Outer East Primary Care Partnerships invite you to join two of Australia's most dynamic facilitators. In this course you will practice responding creatively and leading when surrounded by uncertainty and complexity.

We have developed a comprehensive course that engages your head, heart, and hands with the latest in contemporary theory, practice and tools. These practical tools are more than effective ways to lead systems change efforts in your own work, additionally they will help you to discover new ways of thinking, seeing, and doing.

We will guide you through a highly engaging learning journey that will challenge your thinking and ensure you have some fun along the way!

Collaborating Online

This course will model a diverse range of facilitation styles and utilise online platforms in ways that support your learning and collaboration.

Additionally, you will come out of this course with more confidence and methods to effectively and deliberately engage, collaborate with other leaders and facilitate online.

What's covered in this course

Participatory leadership and practice; Systems thinking; Complexity theory and practice; Critical thinking; Design thinking and tools; Deliberative democratic practices.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course you will be able to:

- Tackle and make progress on a real-life work challenge that you bring to the course
- Re-imagine leadership and apply practical strategies to support you to lead and plan in times of high uncertainty and complexity
- Work with stories to evaluate system-change initiatives and make better decisions
- Apply living-systems principles to your work and make strategies and plans more resilient and adaptive
- More effectively use a range of digital platforms for collaboration and technologies that you can apply in your work right away!
- Take away tips, experiences, and methods to engage and facilitate online collaboration

Course Mentors and Facilitators

Chad Foulkes
Facilitator/Director
Liminal by Design

Geoff Brown
Facilitator/Director
Tangent Consulting

In response to noticeable need, Chad Foulkes and Geoff Brown's work has become increasingly focused on helping leaders work with the complexity that surrounds them.

Working and learning globally, they have brought together a range of tools, disciplines, models, and practical approaches that have helped people make sense of complexity and act in intelligent ways together.

Chad and Geoff have over 15 year's experience in the design and in the facilitation of group conversations. They have become widely known for their transformational work with leaders and long-term support of system-wide, stakeholder alliances.

Leadership for Systems Change

A comprehensive course to equip Coordinators and Managers in the East region to lead through uncertainty and complexity.

8th September - 8th December 2020

Who is this course for

This course is for Coordinators or Managers working with complexity and uncertainty, across government, health and community.

This course is aimed at leaders who want to apply new thinking to persistent problems and make real progress on current challenges in your work.

What we require from you

Each session builds on the previous as you learn from, are supported by, and support other leaders in the region to learn and practically apply concepts to your current work challenges.

It requires a commitment of time and a willingness to be open to change.

To do this you are required to attend all sessions and do a small amount of work between sessions.
